LETTER FROM OLYMPIA

OLYMPIA Oct 30 1875

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

At roll call every morning with but few exceptions every member is found in his seat and all seem anxious to acquit themselves credibly not only in the eyes of their constituents but also in that of the Territory at large and the result is that many important measures are introduced and discussed with kindness and forbearance towards each other. I regret to say that Mr Newland of Walla Walla one of the most regular attendants did not appear this morning and on making inquiry I found that while on his way home on Friday evening owing to the extreme darkness of the night the hon gentleman stepped off the sidewalk and hurt himself severely. However I was glad to hear that he was able to resume his seat during the afternoon session.

HOUSE BUSINESS

A House bill was introduced to day appropriating $25 000 for the opening of Skagit river, so as to be made navigable, and the matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

Mr Whitney also introduced H M 18, praying for an appropriation of $25,000 for the removal of obstructions in the Skagit and Nooksack rivers, which was passed.

Mr Miller introduced another bill to day to regulate the sale of eggs by weight in lieu of his bill on the same subject which was lost a few days ago. After the bill had been read a second time under suspension the members from Kitsap moved to exclude his county from the provisions of the bill but the motion was lost. Then the members from Jefferson Pacific and Walla Walla made the same motions for their respective counties, and all met with the same fate as Kitsap. A member then moved to lay on the table but the House ruled that Washington Territory eggs could not be laid in that way. By this time the discussion had nearly reached boiling heat, and Mr. Miller's eggs were about cooked when an honorable gentleman moved to refer the bill to the committee on mines and mining interests, which was received with a most emphatic No. The famous committee on education was then suggested, but the motion was ignominiously voted down, and the members finding that all their efforts failed to smash the eggs, the bill was passed. On the question as to the title of the bill being put, it was moved to amend by inserting the word 'hens,' before eggs. Motion lost. Next in order, "duck" was suggested, but the House seemed to have an antipathy to both duck and hen eggs. One of the members then wished to know what effect the bill would have on crocodile eggs, but the speaker was unable to answer. After a good deal of talk the title was agreed to. Now, although the bill at first sight may seem ridiculous yet it really is not so, as will be shown by the fact that some States have already passed similar laws, and they are found to be beneficial to those who deal in hen fruit. The bill provides that 24 ounces shall constitute the standard weight of a dozen of eggs, and by this means all mistakes in the counting of eggs by the dozen can be easily rectified.

Mr Hughes introduced a bill appropriating money to build a road across the Cascade mountains via Snoqualmie Pass, but, inasmuch as C B. 10 bears the same title, and is now in the hands of a committee, the speaker very properly refused to allow it to be read, and declared it out of order. This bill, no doubt may be a good one for the development of the Territory but I consider that the action of the friends of the bill, and the efforts they are putting forth in its behalf, are likely to hurt it in the end. The old adage, 'least said soonest mended' might be very applicable in this case, and if the bill is one that should pass the present legislature is composed of honorable men who are not likely to throw stumbling blocks in its way.

If R 107, by Mr Lynch is an important local measure relating to Walla Walla and provides for the levying of a special tax for the purchase of a steam fire engine; and from the experience of the people in that locality during the late fire I am not surprised at their wishing to be ready for emergencies.

At the commencement of the session a very fine school bill was introduced by Mr Foster and, having been printed was laid over until to day, when it was reported back by the committee on education, accompanied by a substitute, which was recommended for passage. Section I of the substitute provides that the territorial superintendent and two other persons elected by the legislature shall constitute a board of education, who shall have power to adopt a uniform series of text books for schools; section 4 that the board shall meet in Olympia in December, 1875 shall receive $8 per day while on duty and 5 cents per mile for distance traveled. This section also provides that a school tax shall be levied of not more than eight nor less than six mills on the dollar. It also provides that sec. 16 chap iv shall not be so construed as to exclude the reading of the Bible in the schools, provided that no catechizing or commenting shall be tolerated. With these and a few other slight amendments the bill is about the same as that approved Nov 14, 1873 and it was made the special order for Monday next before a committee of the whole.

H B 14 was amended yesterday in Council, to the effect that drinking saloons might be opened after the polls had closed on election day. The House refused to concur in the amendment, and I fear the bill will have a poor chance of passing at all.

The bill for the framing of a constitution and State government has now passed both houses and yet with our small population I don't see that it will do much good at least for some time to come.

It is to be regretted that so many motions are sometimes made by members as a joke and with no real intention that they should pass yet the clerk had to record even the most frivolous motions with the possible prospect of having to expunge them from the journal next day. Of course this is nobody's fault in particular but if members would only consider the matter they could save the clerks and reporters a great deal of trouble and advance the interests of the Territory materially by saving time. The session is drawing to a close and many things to be done yet. It therefore levelves upon the representatives of the people that they make the best use they can of the short time given them.

TERRITORIAL CONVICTS

C B No 27 having passed the Council is now in the hands of the judiciary committee of the House and will probably be reported on Monday. It provides for the boarding keeping and clothing &c of Territorial convicts in the most convenient and secure jail nearest to which the offence was committed. The keeper of such prisoners is to be allowed 85 cents per diem for each prisoner and is allowed to keep him at hard labor not to exceed ten hours per day. From one of the members I have received the following estimate of the probable cost of prisoners confined under this act compared with the amount previously paid by the Territory:

Estimated amount of Territorial fees during the past two years for same as accruing to former rule	$ 1000
For two years Ikard's fees for 11 convicts at 85 cents	$312 50
Estimated gain to Territory under provisions of C B 2	1 000 00 81 1 [illegible]
	$ 687

This is certainly a most important matter to the Territory and yet it requires strict scrutiny to see that not only the Territory but the prisoners themselves may be justly dealt with. That the old system has been a burden one is and has been all can see. How could the guard of a certain county in this Territory have sworn to the fact that the amount of work performed by the prisoners under his charge during the preceding quarter amounted to $3 84 82 and yet in the very same account be charged the Territory with $598 50 for the same work thus making a clear gain in one quarter of $603 58. If the prisoners were but to comfortably kept and treated like human beings the Territory might feel justified in paying the little overplus but when men with souls like ourselves are wedged into narrow dens two in each den with not the first breath of fresh air to save them from suffocation then indeed the Black Hole of Calcutta or the Bastile in Paris seem brought home to us in all their horrors. Let convicts be confined in the penitentiary on McNeils' Island, where they will be treated decently and let the Territory be satisfied to pay $1 50 for each sooner than have such a fearful blot on its record—such a detestable curse in our midst. Let those who think go and examine for themselves and see if matters have been exaggerated. If this bill introduced by Mr Hoover works a reform the sooner it is passed the better it will be, but if it does not better the condition of the prisoner then let it die and try other means to help those who are unable to help themselves.

GROSS INSULTING

Quite a howl has been raised by the Democratic press of this city during the past week because the Executive, in pursuance of the law of the United States (Revised Statutes 1857) should dare to send to the Council his nominations for Territorial officers which nominations of course, the Council refused to confirm. Not satisfied in refusing confirmation the story had to be spread abroad that the Governor to have revenge for their refusal, intended to veto every measure passed by the Council and presented for his signature, and special stress was laid on the point that his excellency stated that he would veto the Ping county bill and that had not the time already expired in which it should be signed (five days) and that the bill was already a law the results would have been unpleasant for the bill. So far from this being the fact I may state without fear of contradiction that it is a deliberate falsehood throughout. The Governor never threatened to use the veto power if his nominations were not confirmed he never desired any friend to inform the Council that such was his intention, the Ping county bill has not yet been either signed or vetoed, the five days not expiring until Monday next and that he is likely to veto bills which are for the benefit of the Territory, is not either consistent or probable. That there were fatal errors in the bill organizing Ping county is a fact too clear to be doubted and that the veto, under the circumstances, would have been justifiable, cannot be denied by any one. There has been no sinecuring,' no 'damnable outrages' committed nor have the rights of the people been abridged in the slightest degree. I am not saying a word either in favor of or against the nominations sent in by the Governor, but I do say that it is unjust in any journal to find fault with an officer for doing his duty or, rather, obeying orders, and then patch up a cock-and-bull story with not a vestige of truth in it.

REPORTER.

WHAT CARL SCHURZ THINKS OF THE SITUATION

[From the New York Herald of Oct 16.]

Mr Schurz, who is staying a few days in this city at the house of his friend Dr Jacobi No 110 West Thirty fourth street, has been visited by numbers of citizens desirous to congratulate him upon the success of his efforts in Ohio. He feels in excellent spirits about the victory for hard moneys and is in good health. Yesterday in conversation with some friends, among whom as a matter of course a representative of the Herald was found, he was asked whether he thought the vote in Ohio and the defeat of the inflation movement would have such an effect in the West as to definitely put that issue out of our politics for the next year. He replied:

Mr Schurz—It is very questionable. Those who know the West are aware that inflation is very strong there and that it commands a large majority of the Democratic party in that region, excepting, perhaps, in the extreme Northwestern States including Illinois. If the inflationists had been beaten by a very large majority in Ohio the result would probably have discouraged them so much as to induce them to give it up, but the majority being small, they may feel warranted in trying again, and go on with the organization of legal tender clubs, which they have already begun and which they intend to establish on a large scale. Besides the Ohio election returns show that while a small number of hard money Democrats voted against Allen a much larger number of soft money Republicans voted for him. Ohio has always been a strong Republican State on a full vote. This time Hayes got a very large number of votes which did not properly belong to the Republican party. At the last election 10 000 votes were cast in the State for an independent candidate. These votes as it was told by the independent leaders, were now cast for Hayes almost unanimously, perhaps quite so. Besides the Germans, who had in a great measure put loose from the Republican party but who have always been very sound on the money question went for Hayes very strongly. In fact they did splendidly, as you may conclude from the election returns of Cincinnati and Cleveland. How large a number of hard money Democrats may have gone for Hayes I am not able to say. During the campaign I frequently inquired about this matter, but in the different localities which I visited I received only the names of a few who could be depended upon while some of the recognized leaders of the hard money Democrats made speeches in favor of Allen in spite of his nomination. From all this it appears that a great many Republicans must have gone over to Allen leaving it to the Independents, including the Germans and what hard money Democrats adhered to their principles rather than their party, to make up Hayes majority. The state of things may encourage the inflationists to try their strength once more.

Question—Then you do not look upon this victory as decisive?

Mr Schurz—I look upon it as an exceedingly important one inasmuch as it showed the inability of the inflationists to drive every thing before them with the cry of more money on their own chosen field. It certainly has saved the country from an immediate danger, and I am sure, if the campaign had continued a few weeks longer in the same vigorous and aggressive style in which it was conducted at last by the hard money men the majority of Hayes would have been much larger and it is probable that it would have been larger even now had the issue been voted upon directly without being obscured by party lines. In that case the hard money candidate would undoubtedly have received a much larger number of Democratic votes. I heard some hard money Democrats in Ohio say that they instructed the principles advocated by Allen and Cary but still would vote for them because they wanted their party to succeed anyway. Now you see how the financial issue cuts right through the two old party lines and how great the danger is to the public good when a question of such importance is not treated and voted upon its own merits.

Q What effect do you think the result in Ohio will have upon the Democratic party?

Mr Schurz—It is perhaps a little too early yet to form an opinion on that point but my impression is that the inflationists will not give it up. Their feelings are embittered by what they call the bad treatment they received at the hands of the hard money Democrats at the last and they think of nothing but to revenge. They believe they will be strong enough to accomplish their purpose with the aid of the inflation Democracy of the South and in control—if not the majority—at least in the national convention and if the inflation sentiment of the South is as strong as the Southern representation in Congress would lead us to believe they might make a very powerful combination. If they had succeeded in Ohio the movement would no doubt have spread almost irresistibly over a large part of the West and the entire South with the exception of Texas. Even as it is it may appear very formidably there.

Q Do you then think that further efforts are necessary to insure the final defeat of the inflationists?

Mr Schurz—Of course I do. We will have to go steadily on with the propagation of sound doctrines and especially will we have to prepare the way for the active co operation of all the hard money forces now divided by old party lines. It will not do to underestimate the strength of the inflation element and the Ohio election has shown that it can draw largely upon the Republican party even when that party in its official capacity takes different ground while in the Democratic it is evidently in many States of controlling strength. While therefore there is little doubt that the good sense and honesty of the American people would overcome, with proper effort all the strength of the inflation movement yet the proper effort must be made an energetic co operation of all those who think alike on this question is not only desirable, but is almost indispensable.

Q What effect do think the Ohio result will have upon the Republican party?

Mr Schurz—The probability is that it will induce the inflationists in that party either to submit or to go out. Some will do the first and some the last, as was the case in Ohio. The party, as such will probably in its platform take hereafter more uncompromising hard money ground. But if they want to strengthen themselves they will have to do a great many things besides. I saw a dispatch in the paper from Washington, immediately after the announcement of the result in Ohio was assured to the Republicans. This is very foolish talk. The result in Ohio, as every well informed man knows, could not have been secured by Republican votes alone, and a great many of those who voted and worked for Hayes had to forget for the time being a great many things in order to avert from the country an immediate danger. This was so keenly felt during the campaign that old party politics were by Republican speakers to a great many if not in most cases carefully left behind. Had there been no living issue in the campaign, and the two parties had measured their strength in the old-fashioned way the probability is that the result would have been as in many other instances a light vote more Republicans than Democrats staying at home and the Independents either voting for a man of their own, or scattering, or staying at home also.

Q Do you think there is any possibility of the financial issue being out of the next campaign?

Mr Schurz—Both parties, if they remain as they now are will have to pronounce themselves upon this question, and the issue can remain out of the campaign only if they both agree. Whether that will be the case I think it is a little too early to predict. But whether it be so or not each party will have to strengthen itself by other claims on the confidence of the people.

Q You think, then that the Independents have not permanently attached themselves to either party?

Mr Schurz—As far as I know them, with very few exceptions, they have not and do not intend to do so and I think the number of independent voters is growing. The Ohio election has, in my opinion, had the effect of strengthening and encouraging the feeling of the Independents that they are able to wield great power for the good of the country.

Q If it is not an indiscreet question, what do you consider your own relations to the two parties to be?

Mr Schurz—That is not an indiscreet question at all. I think I gave a full answer to that in my speech at Cincinnati. There are many people who think that when a public man expresses his sentiments on such a point there must be some secret purpose behind it. But there is no secret at all. I meant just what I said. That is to say, that I come to Ohio for the purpose of aiding in averting a great public danger, and under similar circumstances I should do the same thing whatever that danger that may be and from whatever side it may threaten. My views with regard to questions other than the currency issue are just the same as they were before I went to Ohio.

Q But will you not have to attach yourself permanently to some party in order to secure an official position of influence in public life again?

Mr Schurz—I am asked this question almost every day by some sympathizing friend. Many people think that it must necessarily be the aim and end of a public man to get into official place, and that therefore such a man must have a party organization at his back to put him in. That sort of thing troubles me very little, because I don't care to get into public position. If I, as a private citizen and an independent man can exercise a whole some influence on public opinion whenever it is desirable for the public good, I am perfectly satisfied and wish for nothing more. I therefore find the position of an independent not only a tenable but a very comfortable one. I am frequently told by politicians of each party that the doors are open for us and that we can be honorably received into the fold. That the doors are open to us I have no doubt. But the question is what we shall find within. I suppose we shall be able to form an opinion about that when the parties get ready for the Presidential contest. We shall then see which party not only professes the best principles and makes the fairest promises, but which gives, in the character of its candidates, the best guarantee that its dangerous elements and selfish instincts will have no controlling influence. I believe that party will have the best chance next year which lifts itself highest above its selfish partisan impulses and above its own record. I think the country will be most served if the political parties are not both as bad but both as good as possible, and that each will improve the other by improving itself. If in a Presidential campaign, they should offer us, instead of a choice of evils a choice of blessings it would be no sacrifice for me to stay quietly at home and not say a word. But that is probably hoping too much under any circumstances. In the meantime I must hold fast to the opinion that only a combination of the best elements of both parties would have a sure claim on public confidence. And when we look at it closely we shall find that there are scarcely any differences of principle or of purpose left which ought to divide the best elements of the two.

Q Do you see any improvement in the conduct of the two parties?

Mr Schurz—Of late unquestionably some good things have been done on either side, partly owing to the spirit of the men who were intrusted with power, but partly also owing to the circumstance that both parties feel themselves more on their good behavior and that, again, is owing to the fact that a continually increasing number of citizens care very little whether the ticket they vote be a Republican or Democratic one but very much whether by so voting they can prevent evil and promote good government. The worst thing that can happen to a party in a moral sense is to become so strong as to believe itself irresistible. When a party thinks it can do anything and get no successful, the most unscrupulous elements will at once try to get on to and then do anything, and when they are once there it is in an old organization always extremely difficult to throw them off again. There is nothing that will do a party so much good as the necessity of being virtuous in order to live.

Q What effect do you think the hard times have on the politics of the country?

Mr Schurz—As a general thing hard times work against the party in power. At present they undoubtedly have the effect favorable to the inflation movement. I had an opportunity to visit the mining counties in Ohio but I understand the inflation movement was strongest there and it was there that the largest number of votes went over from the Republicans to the inflationists. It is to be hoped they will by and by become convinced of the fact that the success of an inflation movement would only intensify the distrust now prevailing make capital still more timid and increase the stagnation of business instead of relieving it. Yesterday I saw a business man here who manages the interests of several capitalists in Europe. He told me that until recently his instructions had been to reinvest here the interest accruing from the sums put out here by them but that a short time ago he had been ordered by a majority of them to remit the interest to Europe and also to withdraw the principal and send it home in case Governor Allen should be elected. This shows clearly how the inflation would work.

The conversation gradually drifted to other subjects less interesting to the public.

THE GREAT MISTAKE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It may be a subject worthy of serious reflection as to what is becoming of the great Republican party that for many years has carried all before it and on whose banners have been inscribed continuous victory. It is and has been the party of progress, of union, of devotion to the well being of the Republic. It crushed out the great rebellion. It saved the government of the people and for the people from perishing from the earth. It removed human slavery from the land. No other party on earth ever did as much good as it has in the same time. In view of the opposition it was compelled to meet, its achievements are wonderful. It grew and strengthened by the excesses the wild and unjust vagaries of the Democracy. The moral and right thinking sentiment of the country attached itself to the Republican party by the force of heart conviction, and that conviction was for the right against the wrong. Hence the mighty moral power it had and wielded over the people.

Now, is it possible that the party that sought and fought to destroy this Republic, that committed high treason; that cost the expenditure of three billions of dollars, that was the cause of the murder of one million men, with all its attendant horrors,—I ask, is it possible that such a party is soon to take charge of a government it struggled so hard to destroy? It must be confessed that it looks like it. And now let us see if we can find a reason for the present state of affairs, for there must be a reason. It does not arise from a want of political principle or great national object of the party, for the Democracy have none. But, in my view, it arises from a want of confidence in the honesty and integrity of many of its office-holders throughout the country, and a belief that they care not for the interest of the government or the people, but instead are influenced by a spirit of peculation and fraud. This is doubtless true, but is this peculation and fraud the fault of the party or the administration, or either? I claim it is not. The administration has done and is doing more than ever was done before to arrest and punish the guilty. And the party are urging on the administration in the performance of this duty. What, then, is the matter, and who are to blame? The answer, in the writer's opinion, may be found in the mistake made by the party in putting Democratic Republicans in office. The majority of the present Federal office-holders of the country are old Democrats—men who did all they could to bring about the rebellion—but, on seeing their course would fail, they changed front and turned Republicans, and being trained politicians and born tricksters, they soon succeeded in securing positions all over the country in place of men whose every feeling and emotion was love of country. Men who became Republicans from principle, and stood forth at times that "tried men's souls," have been passed by, and appointments given to a class of men who were known to be in favor of the disruption of this Republic in 1860 and during the war.

It seems to me the strangest and most incomprehensible policy ever heard or read of, to intrust power into the hands of its former enemies. This mistake was begun by the great and generous heart of President Lincoln, with high motives of state as his reasons, but since has been carried to extremes. Now, no party or government can be adopted such a course without reaping the penalty, and the country is now suffering and will suffer the penalty of their mistaken policy. The true and tried friends of the Republic should be its officers and rulers. If official position in a party or government be divided among its friends and foes, you will find a house divided against itself, and God says such a house cannot stand. No one who ever sympathized with or in any way assisted the late rebellion should ever have been appointed to any office, and the idea that an intelligent Northern man can claim to be true and loyal to this Republic, if he was opposed to it or desired its overthrow in 1860, the writer don't believe. If it be possible that such anomalies do exist in the form of men it but proves them unfitted to be trusted officially by any government. The placing such in power ever has proved disastrous, because they have no love or pride of country. Their feelings and motives are personal and selfish. And self and self interest will be the controlling rule of their official action and peculation, swindling and fraud will inevitably exist so long as official position is to that class intrusted.

No one would intrust his money to one known to be immoral and dishonest, nor can a government, with safety, appoint to office those who at any time were known to be disloyal or opposed to their existence.

TUESDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 2 1875

WHAT AILS THE REPUBLICAN PARTY?

A correspondent whose communication appears in this paper discusses the political situation from the bloody shirt stand point and has about thought as all do who view it from that stand point several important and to our opinion controlling facts He seems to assume that none of those who participated in and led or countenanced the rebellion were conscientious men or men to be trusted in any position They are all selfish and corrupt men who accept office only for selfish and sordid purposes, and consequently improve every opportunity for peculation and fraud This is a capital error While it is true that all who took part in the effort to overthrow the government were technically guilty of treason it is equally true that very many—probably a vast majority—of them took up arms under the strongest convictions of right, took up arms as the revolutionary fathers of this nation did to redress what they honestly thought to be wrongs, or to vindicate what they sincerely believed to be their rights, at the peril of bringing on themselves the penalty of treason in case of failure They were not successful as the heroic rebels whom Washington led to victory and glory and having failed they could not have complained if the vengeance of violated law had fallen upon them, as it has fallen upon many a conscientious, political criminal before but having escaped the punishment, and being therefore still upon the stage of action, we see no reason why those of them who were conscientious then and who honestly accept the settlement made by the war of the issues upon which it was prosecuted may not be as safely trusted now as any other class of citizens We are aware that these remarks are more generally applicable to the masses than to the leaders and politicians and that it is the latter class that are most ready to profess conversion and almost to the same extent we agree to the impolicy of selecting such men for official station and we can not deny that the Democratic politicians of war times have developed a remarkable susceptibility to the seductive influences of office and pap since the end of the struggle.

Our correspondent makes another capital mistake when he assumes that all that is to be done to put an end to corruption and peculation in the publice service is, to decapitate all persons of Democratic antecedents and replace them with Republicans of the old school—men who were Republicans, as he says, in the times that 'tried men's souls" We confess that having been Republican through all those dark days, we have not taken very kindly to general conversion of the Republican party into an asylum for broken down loco foco politicians, but we can not assent to the idea that the public service would be completely purified by the appointment only old-line Republicans to office till we shall have forgotten the history of the past few years The disclosures of corruption and general rascality in office which have so often startled the whole country for two or three years past, have not left the Republicans of the olden time in a position to boast the possession of all the honesty and none of the scoundrelism If either party has a monopoly of the former or a noticeable exemption from the latter, we have failed to observe it

So much is due to party that a party test is proper enough when candidates for election or appointment to office are about equally entitled to consideration with respect to the higher qualifications of personal character—honesty and competency,—but when more than that is claimed in the name of party more is claimed than any self governing people can afford to allow But when partisanship is pushed to the extent of proscribing not only all who belong to the adverse party, regardless of personal character and qualifications, but ostracising all who at any time within the memory of man did belong to it, the case is as much worse than that presented by ordinary party rule as can well be imagined Had the Republican party pursued that course strictly for the last ten years, instead of retaining its ascendancy as the writer thinks it would have done, it would have been buried out of sight long ago

PENNSYLVANIA

The Philadelphia Times (independent) said on October 21st, in face of the Republican victory in Ohio that Cyrus I Pershing Democratic inflation candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, would receive 40,000 Republican votes in the State Today the election takes place, and to-morrow it will be pretty well known whether the Times calculation is right. If 30,000 Republicans go for the dilutionist candidate the chances are he will be elected by a very considerable majority, for it cannot be hoped that anything like an equal number of Democrats will vote for Hartranft Doubtless there are many Democrats in Pennsylvania who deplore the idiotic course of the party on the currency question but few indeed of them will vote for the opposition candidate Democrats seldom do that They generally vote for the party candidate In this State we have reason to believe that quite a number of Democrats voted for Warren, but such cases, take the States by and large," are exceedingly rare We predict, however the 6,000 Republican votes which Hartranft is to receive will fall him when the pinch comes Governor Hartranft's administration has given great satisfaction and he will carry the full strength of his party

The Philadelphia Times gives a summary of the decision of the Supreme Court of Michigan on the legal status of the liquor traffic the decision of that was briefly referred to in the telegraphic dispatches a short time since The most notable points in the decision of the highest judicial tribunal of Michigan are that without prohibitory legislation the trade and traffic in liquors is legal and needs no license It stands upon the same footing with all other trades and classes of business Again it is stated that as the trade requires no license to make it legal the clause in the constitution of Michigan forbidding license is of no effect It has no ground on which to stand or operate The court then goes further and decides that a special tax on the sellers of intoxicating liquors is not a license and all taxing powers being in the General Assembly except as expressly taken away by the constitution, the General Assembly has power to lay a special tax on sellers of intoxicating liquors Having thus laid down the law in relation to the case the Court proceeds since the policy and morality of the special tax and its practical effects in the direction intended by its originators are not for the consideration of the Supreme Court of Michigan will doubtless be the case of much discussion in all parts of the country and thus invest and clothe the Temperance or Prohibitory movement with additional interest

The New York Herald of October 31st remarks that of the crop of candidates for the rival presidential nominations next year shows no sign of failure The latest suggestion for second place on the Republican national ticket in 1876 is the champion stump orator of the party Stewart L Woodford ex Lieutenant Governor of New York A Springfield (Ohio) paper having nominated Hayes and Woodford as its choice for president and vice-president the Washington Chronicle of this morning indorses the second name as follows

We shall also hear of such combinations as Sherman and Woodford, Bristow and Woodford and it may be Grant and Woodford But somehow since the brilliant campaign tour of Governor Woodford in Ohio and its no less brilliant result his name is more frequently mentioned by quiet knowing ones than any other for the second place on our ticket in 1876

Vidi thinks the Republican politicians of Portland defeated Warren It may be that he owes his defeat to persons of that class, but the statement is more general and sweeping than the facts in the case warrant While some of the Portland politicians, who are usually busy in urging the interests of the Republican party, were suggestively absent from the polls on this occasion others of them were active as usual, and were evidently very desirous of seeing Mr Warren elected The inference of Vidi from the result of the election in Multnomah and Clatsop counties is not therefore entirely correct

John King in 1862 lived in Tennessee Soldiers of both armies raided on his farm so he removed all his produce to a cave in the Cumberland mountains A storm threw down a rock which closed the mouth of the cave Therein he lived for thirteen years in the dark eating from his produce and drinking from a spring The other day a railroad company blasting, for a tunnel, blasted him out So says a paper

On October 20th the Republicans of the second judicial district of New York nominated J O Dykeman for Judge of the Supreme Court and thereupon the Liberals and Independent Democrats, whose convention was in session endorsed the Republican nomination, and the two parties made common cause against the straightout Democracy

Politics in Massachusetts appear to be coming up considerably Hon Alexander H Rice, the Republican candidate for Governor, having made some speeches in his own behalf is told by his friends that such conduct will injure him, and that he should leave the stump speaking to persons who are not candidates

The New York Herald has about the same opinion as the Times of the appointment of ex Senator Chandler as Secretary of the Interior It says He is reputed to be rich and may charitably be presumed to be above pecuniary temptation, but we can think of no other point in his favor

The following persons are candidates to succeed Hon G W Wright as United States Senator from Iowa Ex Senator Harlan General W W Belknap Hon Geo W McCrary Hon Hiram Price and Hon Samuel J Kirkwood governor elect

The Charleston (S C) News casts off the New York Democrats and says that the Democracy of the South and West must be pusillanimous indeed if they submit any longer to their insolent and unscrupulous dictation

The Pittsburgh Dispatch, straight Republican disposes of the appointment of Chandler by saying the country has been accustomed to hear of Chandler as a good judge of whisky and an amateur pugilist

At a reunion of the veterans of Elizabeth New Jersey October 18th the two principal speakers were Gen Franz Sigel, of the Union army and Gen Roger A Pryor, of the Confederate army

The once famous trotting horse Jack Rossiter, died at St Louis Oct 20th at the age of 30 years The New York Herald says Flora Temple is in her thirty first year

They are very strong on snakes in Dallas county, Texas In one bedchamber there since last spring there have been killed, one rattlesnake of five feet three tarantulas and one long fellow simply described as a serpent. The last mentioned reptile got into bed with Mr Harrison who upon awaking in the night became aware of the creatures companionship He knew that if he disturbed his bedfellow by moving it would be the worse for him and so he kept perfectly quiet all night with the creature coiled beside him until morning brought light and help and death to the intruder It is thought that Mr Harrison slept much but no doubt the snake had a good warm time of it

CITY.

STEAMER ORIENT SELLS TO CLATSOP.—Sunday morning the steamer R. R. Cooke started down to Clatsop beach, having on board Ben Holladay and wife. The O. S. S. Co. not having any other available boat to take the place of the Cooke on the line between Portland and Oregon City, got the O. S. N. Co. to put on the new steamer Orient temporarily. The latter boat went up on Sunday with a full freight list, Capt. L. E. Pratt at the wheel. When near the wharf at Oregon City the rudders of the steamer got fouled with driftwood and the boat became unmanageable to a certain extent. The bow was headed for the shore and the driftwood preventing the wheel from being reversed so as to back the steamer she ran into the wharf. Luckily there was but little headway on or the consequences might have been disastrous. As it was the prow of the steamer was slightly shattered and partially torn from its fastenings and a small portion of the guards carried away. She came down yesterday morning bringing a heavy freight. Mr. John Holland the O. S. N. Co.'s chief builder made the necessary repairs, and the Orient went up the river yesterday afternoon.

IN AUSTRALIA.—The captain of the British bark Herbert Black, which came directly from New South Wales to this port, states that just prior to the departure of his vessel for here he had a few words with Capt. Simpson and had some conversation with him. He also saw the bark Whistler which narrowly escaped being lost some months ago. Capt. Simpson has been master of the bark Whistler for a number of years, and is well known to the merchants and business men of this city. For several years the Whistler was engaged as a coaster between San Francisco and Portland, but about two years since she was transferred to the Australian trade. Capt. Simpson is reported to be in excellent health and spirits, notwithstanding his recent narrow escape from the perils of the watery deep. Portland still has a warm place in his heart and as an earnest of his good feelings toward the place he gave the captain of the Herbert Black a letter of introduction to one of the leading business men of the city.

A WARehouse ACCIDENT.—The evening cotemporary has the following account of an accident which befell the farmer's warehouse at Linnton, on Sunday: "The sills next to the river, yesterday or last night, from the heavy pressure bearing on them from the immense bulk of grain stored in the building, gave way a little and for a time it was feared the warehouse would go to pieces and it would have to be abandoned. Not six or seven thousand bushels of grain have been removed therefrom. This relieved the pressure from the weak part of the warehouse and saved the building from careening over, becoming a total wreck, and the grain stored therein from material damage from the ruin which would have rendered it unfit for use. The building will not be repaired until all the grain in the building is removed, and that will be as soon as other places of storage can be selected."

ARRESTED GUILTY.—In the State circuit court yesterday morning the jury in the case of State vs. Louis Pillsbury, charged with forging a note, returned a verdict of guilty after a few minutes deliberation. Saturday has been fixed by the court as the time for pronouncing sentence. Louis Pillsbury came from Albany, New York, about two months since with the parents with whom he resides at present. He has hitherto attained his majority, and is said to be almost respectably connected. In the case of State vs. John Walker, indicted for assault on Wm. Taylor several months ago with a knife, the defendant on being brought into court withdrew his previous plea of not guilty, and substituted a plea of guilty. Sentence will be passed against Walker on Saturday.

WORK COMMENCED.—Masons commenced the work yesterday morning of laying the brick for the new brick building to be erected by Mr. Eugene Shelby, on Front street. The work of excavating was finished on Friday by Mr. Butts, the contractor and Mr. Ellis, who has the contract for doing the brick work, commenced with a force of men early last Jay forenoon. As the season is far advanced, and regular winter rains can soon be expected, the work will be crowded forward to completion as rapidly as the weather will allow.

ODD FELLOWS.—Last Saturday night Multnomah Lodge No. 12, I. O. O. F. elected the following officers to serve during the ensuing quarter. W. S. Cameron, W. C. T.; Miss Annie Hayden, W. V. T.; Samuel Bowers, R. S. to C. S.; Williams, W. F. S.; Miss Donnell, W. T.; Mrs. C. H. Kellogg, W. C.; Miss A. Smith, W. M.; Mrs. Howe, W. I. G.; Willis Bodman, W. O. G.; Left. Shaw, P. G. T.

THE WEATHER.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, for November 1, 1875:

REVERED.—The Turn Verein removed from Central Market building on Saturday to their new quarters in "Turn Halle, Fourth and Yamhill streets. In about ten days the new building will be ready for public inspection.

THE WEEKLY CONNECTION.—The O. S. N. Co.'s steamer leaving on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 A. M. for the Dalles, will connect with the steamer above for Wallula.

THANKS.—We are indebted to the county of Lane, Polk and Clatsop counties for late dates.

RIVER AND COAST IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. Kramer and party, who have been absent from the city some time in making a preliminary examination of the route of the proposed canal from Shoalwater Bay to Unity returned to the city some days since, having completed the reconnoissance.

Prosquet & Son who were awarded the contract for building wing dams along the channel of the Upper Willamette completed the dam at Long Tree Bar last week. The water is getting so high that it is probable work will be suspended for the present season.

The new machinery which is to be placed in the "Big Snag-puller" is nearly finished. About the middle of the present month work will be suspended for this year. The snag-puller will be laid down through the locks to this city, and during the winter will receive the machinery.

Mr. Wheeler attached to General Michler's office, is at present down the southern coast superintending some improvements—repairs which are being made to the lighthouse at Cape Arago and Cape Blanco. Among the improvements being made a new bridge is in process of construction.

From a late report made by Mr. Buchanan who is superintending the operations of the dredger, to Gen. Michler, we learn that it was ascertained a few days since by measurement that at extreme low tide 20 feet of water can be found at Postoffice bar, and 18½ feet at the mouth of the Willamette.

The repairs ordered to be made by the Government to the fortifications at Forts Curtis and Stevens have been finished inspected by the proper officer of the Government and accepted. These repairs consist of new frames for 15 inch guns and sundry alterations and improvements to the magazines and adjustments.

Messrs. Stone & Grant who were awarded the contract for the improvement of the channel of the Upper Columbia started for the Dalles yesterday morning. From thence they will proceed to the points where the improvements, specified in the contract are to be commenced. Operations will probably not be commenced before the 20th inst. A number of flat boats are to be constructed and ropes, pulleys, tackling and other appurtenances procured to facilitate the rocks from the channel will have to be procured all of which will consume considerable time.

Yesterday morning the steamer California was at Esquimalt Bay. It has not been determined whether the steamer will proceed to Portland or return to Wrangell.

Late on Saturday evening a telegram was received from General Howard at Walla Walla. Capt. Sladen was still improving, and strong hopes are entertained for him.

The vessel Herbert Black is lying alongside the O. S. S. Co.'s dock, discharging coal. The company has purchased all the coal—about 600 tons—and will use the same for their steamers.

Mr. O'Neill will return in a few weeks when he will be pleased to meet all his friends and customers. Call and see him when he returns.

REFORM SCHOOL MEETING.

Pursuant to announcement made in yesterday's issue, a large number of our citizens assembled last evening at Oro Fino Theater for the purpose of taking steps toward the early establishment of a Reform School in this county.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Wm. Wadhams who placed in nomination Hon. H. W. Corbett as chairman. The motion prevailed, and that gentleman was unanimously declared president of the meeting.

Rev. W. C. Chattin was placed in nomination as secretary and was unanimously elected.

Mr. Corbett on assuming the chair, stated briefly the object of the meeting.

By request H. Y. Thompson, Esq. came forward and read the legislative enactment in relation to the establishment of a Reform School in Multnomah county passed at the session of 1872.

When Mr. Thompson had concluded reading the bill Hon. H. W. Corbett addressed the meeting for a few minutes during which he made some very excellent suggestions touching the project in hand. He spoke of the great evil and danger which threatened the welfare of society by permitting little boys and girls to run unrestrained about the streets. It was time that something should be done to crush the growing evil and the fathers and mothers of Portland ought to act upon the matter. He firmly believed that a reformatory institution such as was contemplated by the act of the legislature would greatly remedy the existing evil and strong tendency to hoodlumism, if it would not wholly eradicate it. The time had arrived when the citizens should look the question fairly in the face. He concluded his pertinent remarks by urging upon those present prompt action.

Mr. H. Y. Thompson district attorney followed Mr. Corbett in a short but pithy address. He presented the matter in such a plain, practical manner and with such clearness and force that the most apathetic person in the audience could not escape the conviction that a reform school was a public necessity. He showed conclusively that aside from the question of the moral, mental and social benefits to accrue to the street Arabs by reason of the founding of such an institution it would be a positive gain to the taxpayers of the county. His remarks were greeted with applause.

Mr. Wm. Wadhams was called upon and made a few practical remarks.

He was followed by Rev. T. L. Eliot who expressed himself unqualifiedly in favor of the establishment of some reformatory institution which would save the boys.

Dr. Geo. H. Atkinson upon being called for, gave a brief account of his personal observations in reformatory institutions East, and strongly urged immediate action on the part of the fathers of Portland.

Several other persons addressed the meeting expressing their hearty sympathy in the project and desiring that the good work be commenced.

Mr. J. L. Atkinson moved that a committee of five persons be appointed to wait upon our citizens and solicit subscriptions in aid of the project.

Considerable discussion was elicited by reason of this motion and various opinions were expressed as to the best and most effective course to pursue.

At length, J. W. Whalley, Esq. moved to amend Mr. Atkinson's motion and presented the following substitute in the form of a resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of five persons be appointed by the chair to devise ways and means for the purpose of establishing a Reform School in the city of Portland and to report at an adjourned meeting of this body.

Mr. Whalley's amendments unanimously prevailed.

The chair appointed the following gentlemen to serve on the committee: J. L. Atkinson, J. W. Whalley, Wm. Wadhams, H. Y. Thompson and G. Shindler.

On motion of Rev. W. C. Chattin, the meeting adjourned to meet one week from next Monday evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., at which time the report of the committee will be submitted.

AMUSEMENTS.

The largest audience of the present season, which closes this evening, greeted the initial performance of the local drama entitled "A Night in Portland or Rescued from the Fire of 1873." While the drama of itself has no particular merit, yet the local characters in the play and hits at prominent men of our city were calculated to create considerable interest in it. The audience was disposed to appreciate the localisms, which at times were decidedly overdrawn by frequent applause. The company made the most of the parts allotted to them in the cast. We do not care to individualize but award to all just praise for their efforts to delineate the characters, which were mainly local. The play will be presented for the last time this evening, as the company leave for Victoria on Wednesday morning.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

The following dignitaries are in town in attendance upon court: Judge Green, J. J. Johnson, District Attorney, Messrs. Strong, Brougham, Caples, Catlin, Pettinger and a host of others. There is an unusual number of strangers in town.

The only case disposed of thus far is the case of Holmes vs. Hillman, action for damages for seduction of wife, dismissed at plaintiff's cost.

Last week the Register announced that Mr. Abbott, formerly of Pendleton had purchased B. M. Washburn's interest, and would conduct the paper hereafter. Yesterday morning the press and part of the type was shipped to The Dalles. An arrangement has been made with the Independent company to furnish their paper to those who had paid in advance for the Register, while all the bills due the latter are made payable to the Independent.

TREATING THE GIRLS.

A HANDSOME YOUNG MAN TAKES WITH A DEAF CASHIER IN A SQUABBLE.

People have noticed that one of the most handsome young men in Burlington has suddenly grown bald, and dissipation is attributed as the cause. Ah, no, he went to a church sociable the other week, took three charming girls out to the refreshment table, let them eat all they wanted, and then found he had left his pocket book at home and a deaf man that he had never seen before at the cashier's desk. The young man with his face aflame, bent down and said softly:

"I am ashamed to say that I have no change with——"

"Hey?" shouted the cashier.

"I regret to say," the young man repeated in a little louder key, "that I have unfortunately come away without any change to——"

"Change two?" chirped the deaf man. "Oh, yes I can change five if you want it."

"No, the young man explained in a terrible penetrating whisper for half a dozen people were crowding up behind him impatient to pay their bills and get away. "I don't want any change, because——"

"Oh, don't want no change?" the deaf man cried gleefully. "Bleeged to ye, bleeged to ye. Don't often we get such generous donations. Pass over your bill."

"No, no," the young man explained, "I have no funds——"

"Oh, yes plenty of fun," the deaf man replied growing tired of the conversation and noticing the long line of people waiting with money in their hands; "but I haven't got time to talk about it now. Please settle and move on."

But, the young man gasped out, "I have no money"——

"On Monday?" queried the deaf cashier. "I don't care when you go. You must——an' I let these people come up."

"I have no money!" began the young man shakily, ready to sink into the earth, while the people all around him, and especially the three girls he had treated, were giggling and chuckling audibly.

"One money?" the cashier said. "Of course you do. $2.75."

"I can't pay! I can't pay!" cried the young man, but by turning his pocket inside out and telling his poverty to the heavens, he finally made the deaf man understand. And then he had to shriek his full name three times while his ears fairly rang with the half stifled laughter that was breaking out all around him, and he had to scream out where he worked, and roar when he would pay, and he couldn't get the deaf man to understand him until some of the church members came up to see what the uproar was and, recognizing their young friend, made it all right with the cashier. And the young man went out into the night and clubbed himself and shredded his locks away until he was said to be a sight.—Burlington Hawkeye.

EXTRAORDINARY OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RELIEF OF THE AFFLICTED.

The Surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana, Pacific Branch, 319 Bush street, San Francisco, have finally yielded to the many urgent appeals to visit Portland, Oregon, for the benefit of the people of Oregon and Washington Territory. Three or more of the surgeons will be at the Cosmopolitan Hotel Portland Oregon, on the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 16th of November 1875. They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and complete assortments and will be prepared to change it and make such apparatus as may be required. They will confidently undertake to treat all surgical cases. Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Cataract, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip, they will not take another; therefore all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to San Francisco or Indianapolis must do so at this time. No cases will be undertaken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the institution is entirely responsible and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, curing thousands annually. Remember the time and place and concularly. Enfeebling Paralysis.

Nature intended that we should use our legs freely and revenges herself upon those who constantly sit at their daily avocations in doors by depriving them of that robust health which usually falls to the share of those who labor on foot in the open air and very frequently inflicts upon them diseases and premature infirmities which they might have avoided by a more active life. Persons who become enfeebled in consequence of sedentary habits or occupations cannot do better than to resort to a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a means of recovering lost strength. A wineglassful of this preparation is recommended to precede each meal. Nothing is so often this prescription of disease. The Bitters are also invaluable as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and rheumatic complaints.

BACKWARD PIN BACKWARD

Backward pin backward my skirts in their fright,
Make me look small again just for to night
I am so weary —my skirts are so long
Sweeping the pavement as I walk along
Dust in my hair flies from out of the street,
I ask that by every one that I meet
Mother dear mother, I know I'm a fright,
Pin back my skirts, go their pin em back tight.

Mother dear mother the days are so warm
As I am tired of this iron I have on
It is so clumsy and for this my right
Pin it back, mother, pin it back tight.
Now I am ready don't I look sweet?
Nothing will happen to meet.
I am in the fashion so that's all right
I'm back my skirts, mother pin em back tight.

Mother dear mother I know it's a sin
To wear dresses that show off the shape of one limb
But what is a poor girl going to do?
If all the world wears them she must wear em too
It is only the thin ones that are so afraid
To show off a form that is not neatly made
You may laugh if you will but you know that I'm right.
I'm back my skirts mother pin em back tight.

A PETRIFIED BABY

[Mr. Clair Letter to the Albany Country Gentleman]

We are having a very interesting mystery here in the shape of the second edition of the fairies Cardiff Giant Two men living in the town of Kimball ten miles from Fort Hudson while out hunting stopped to gather specimens of stone from a gravel bed in the Pine river that was washed out from the bank near by during the freshet a year ago In this loose bank they uncovered a stone resembling the face of a child After looking at it in wonder for a time they thinking of the doubt that hangs over the discovery of the famous giant went out and brought fifteen or twenty men to witness this before taking it out. It was then removed with a mass of gravel adhering The face chin throat, part of the right arm shoulders breast, part of the right arm and the whole of the other showed distinctly in perfect form all the rest merging into a mass of gravel and small bone, cemented together the same as seen in any gravel pit. The right arm is bent, the fore arm lying across the body the other is bent below the elbow The eyes are well defined and very broad; forehead flat and sloping nose small sharp nostrils open lips very [illegible] well defined—curve of the lips perfectly natural chin square slight depression or dimple over the breast bone, also just above the arm where the arms meet, or at least just below where they meet The form of the breast is perfect The skin on the surface is smooth, not showing the marks of tools Some called it a petrified child, and account for the great breadth of the head at the eyes by some pressure that flattened the forehead Among the small stones are petrified coral shells &c such as are very common through this country Can you tell us what it is?

OLD OLDEST VESSEL.—The bark Draco is the oldest vessel in the United States. She was built at Duxbury by Reuben and Charles Drew in 1824, and now is over fifty-one years old The Draco was built in the most thorough manner and of the best materials, pure white oak and if no accident occurs may live as long in the future as she has in the past. She is 251 tons register double deck originally a brig, but altered into a bark in 1854. She was first employed in the freighting business, then sold to F and C Flint & Co for the South American trade, next she passed to Samuel J Bridge, Joseph Knowles and E Tucker Osborn for the Australian trade, and was finally sold to Mr J Bennett Jr, of New Bedford for a whaler, and has long been engaged in that business. The Draco was well known in Boston forty years ago, and was a favorite vessel with all her owners, as she was almost always fortunate in making profitable voyages for them. In 1836 the Draco, in a voyage from Valparaiso to Swansea Wales loaded heavily with a cargo of copper ore passed through the Straits of Magellan, the only vessel of any considerable size that ever made the passage before that time or since.—Boston Advertiser

AN ANCIENT WALL IN MISSISSIPPI.—About eighteen miles from Port Gibson and one mile from Brandywine Springs, on the place of Mr O Quinn, the existence of a great number of blocks of cut stone has been known for an indefinite time, and the people in the neighborhood have used them for props for their houses Mr James Gage, Jr, went out there a few days ago to explore and had a specimen stone brought into town It is about three feet long by about twenty inches square, resembling in shape a bar of soap It is probably a native sandstone Mr Gage took this block himself from beneath the roots of a large pine tree It formed a portion of a wall about twenty feet broad on the top, which Mr Gage traced for a distance of 200 yards The inference that one would naturally draw from this superficial view is that this must have been a city wall but deep exploration might show it to be a portion of a fort, temple or other building. Any way its antiquity is probably immense, antedating the history of the red men.—Port Gibson Standard

The last week of the month was a collection day and a general activity in business circles gave the market an appearance of more life to day than has been seen for some time. Besides a good many merchants from the interior, who make it a rule to do their shipping by the boats, have been postponing the purchase of their winter stocks until the rains have raised the river and this being done they are now in the market making selections and giving orders in very encouraging volume

The local money market is moving on easily, with the usual complaint of closeness, in some quarters, of course, but generally showing no serious pressure There is no change in the rates of discount, the quantity of commercial paper offering being small for the volume of business doing and few demands for accommodation on real estate security. The street trade not being unusually brisk or transactions large is amply supplied as it is not entirely dependent on home capital but at will can draw largely on means outside the state.

The real estate market has some appearance of a revival and transactions are becoming a little more frequent but prices are still moderate compared with the general figures ruling in the days of railroad excitement.

More activity is noted in general merchandise and dealers are encouraged by the prospects of favorable results of trade during the remaining two months of the year

By the Produce.

The market in this department shows a fair amount of activity and the movement is reported quite large for so early a period in the week. Quotations show but little change from those of last week though exporters are claiming that wheat is held above the figures justified by the market elsewhere and mill men holding that flour is too low for the prices which they are compelled to pay for wheat There is, however but little disposition on the part of holders of the cereal to concede to a decline

Shipments both to foreign ports and to San Francisco are large and the volume exported during the month now beginning will be fully as large as in any former month and perhaps larger Nine vessels for Europe cleared last month carrying a total of 482 712 bushels of wheat and 9 447 barrels flour all of the value of $638 366 In the same time shipments to San Francisco embraced 55,328 bushels Wheat and 4,851 barrels flour of the value of about $50,000 More [illegible] exported of the value $717,823 exclusive of shipments to northern ports and China which would raise it to near three quarters of a million Aside from the wheat and the flour market there is no unusual movement but a generally good demand for leading articles of produce at fair figures.
